Gloucester County Recognized for Digital Distinction

Gloucester County was recognized in the top-ten ranking of localities (up to 150,000 population category) for the 2019 Digital Counties Survey conducted by the Center for Digital Government and the National Association of Counties. Gloucester was one of only six localities in Virginia to be recognized in this category.

The award recognizes localities for their technology practices including initiatives that streamline delivery of government services, encourage openness/transparency, collaboration and shared services enhance cyber security and contribute to disaster response and recovery efforts.

“Innovative counties across the U.S. are leveraging technology and data to complete unique projects that better serve citizens, save taxpayer money and protect data,” said Teri Takai, Executive Director of CDG. “We congratulate this year’s winners for their accomplishments.”

This is the seventh time Gloucester County has been noted for exemplary digital services through the Digital County Survey recognition. The Digital Counties Survey awards are presented in conjunction with the National Association of Counties Annual Conference planned for July.
